

SVEF Welcomes You Back!

As we begin the 2023-2024 school year, the Saddleback Valley Educational Foundation (SVEF) would like to welcome our students, teachers and families back to school.

Some of you might be asking, “What is the SVEF”? We are a non-profit organization, originally established 38 years ago to provide support for educational excellence in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District (SVUSD). Over the years the SVEF has supported music, art, science and technology.

For several years, the SVEF researched a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) program called Project Lead the Way (PLTW). Our middle school teachers were already pursuing STEM instruction, so PLTW was a great fit and was initially integrated into the middle schools, then further extended into both Elementary & High Schools within the district. STEM has proven to be an excellent introduction for students at all levels to learn about technology and engineering in a hands-on virtual environment. This approach helps to reinforce science and mathematics while engaging students in a fun and unintimidating manner. STEM is a comprehensive, resource-demanding program, requiring teacher training, licenses, computers, software, robotic kits, 3D printers and an assortment of other equipment and tools. Although the District receives grant funding from the state, a shortage still exists in their efforts to provide STEM in our schools. Consequently the SVEF has continued to help raise funds in support of STEM!

The SVEF so far has provided almost $43,000 in funding and is looking to commit further funds this year towards the SVUSD STEM endeavor. We continue to reach out to major corporations and local businesses, in order to help raise funds in support for our efforts. If you or someone you know works for an organization that could partner with the SVEF, please let us know. Now more than ever, investing in our children’s education is a vital tangible step in helping shape the future of our community and our society.

The SVEF wishes you a great & safe school year, as we look forward to serving you.
